

What is SurveyLA?

Barlow Respiratory Hospital, ca. 1910

SurveyLA – the Los Angeles Historic Resources Survey – is the first-ever comprehensive program to identify significant historic resources throughout our city. The survey marks a coming-of-age for Los Angeles' historic preservation movement, and will serve as a centerpiece for the City's first truly comprehensive preservation program.

Please join the Los Angeles City Historical Society at historic Barlow Respiratory Hospital in Elysian Park, as Janet Hansen of the City's Office of Historic Resources discusses this groundbreaking project – what it is, where it's happening, and how all of us can contribute. Flora Chou of the Los Angeles Conservancy will introduce the evening with a brief talk on the illustrious history of Barlow, from its 1902 opening until today.
